

Ultra•Form™ SEATING CUSHIONS

IST™ Interface Surface Technology - Matching the Needs of the Individual Patient

Ultra•Form Seating Cushions are high performing pressure relief devices that are effective in preventing and treating pressure ulcers. The cushion easily conforms to the contours of the body, meeting the exact demands of the individual patient. Each individual cell has low resistance to “cradle” a bony area while the surrounding network of cells disperse the pressure. The Ultra•Form unique design consists of a network of individual, geometrically designed, polyurethane foam cells that redistribute the patient’s weight, provide optimum support and reduce pressure on the ischials while providing a cooler seating surface. Because the cells are independent of each other, shearing is reduced and the cushion contours to the supported area better than a flat surfaced cushion.
